WEST END HIGHWAYMAN.

He Demands Money of J. E. Brown at 8 O'Clock in the Evening.

a bold attempt at highway robbery was Vednesday night, upon Joseph E. Brown

The young people were going out to spend the evening. They left their home about 8 o'clock and walked down Laclede avenue. When they reached the vacant lot near Grand, a man stepped up to vin and asked for money. Brown re-Browns and asked for money. Brown re-plied with the old gag that he was working that street himself.

"I'll knock you down and your lady too, if you don't give me something," said the highwayman. "I'm a bigger man than you are and I'll take your money away from you."

are and I'll take your money away from you."

Brown carried a cane which he got in readiness to protect himself with, but seeing Frivate Watchman Tindall across the street he called to him. As soon as the man saw the officer coming he started to run. Tindall followed. The man ran north on Grand avenue towards Chestnut street, then turned down Chestnut, but was overtaken and captured midway in the block. Officer Krause came along at this time and helped Tindall convey he man to the Fifth District Police Station. Here he gave the name of John Wilson, 20 years of age, a tallor, just in from Kansas City. Wilson is a vety mild looking young man and would impress one as being anything but a highwayman. He claims to have simply asked Brown for assistance to get a night's lodging when the latter called a policeman to arrest him. He pleaded piteously with Miss Brown not to prefer charges against him, but she was obdurate.

SECOND TRIAL RACE.

Defender and Vigilant Sail to Decide Which Shall Meet Valkyrie.

HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK, N. J., Aug.
28.—The yachts Defender and Vigilant started at II:21 in the second trial race, preliminary to the international contest for the America's Cup. The wind was from the west-no-thwest, about eight knots an hour.
The course is friangular, twenty-four miles in all; eight miles to a leg. The first leg will be southeast, the second north by east, half east, and the third west by south.
At 11:28 a. m. the wind seemed to be failing away. Valkyrie was coming along after the American boats.
At 12:28 p. m. all three yachts were becaimed off the Highlands, neither the Defender nor the Vigilant having gone a quarter of a mile in the preceding half hour.
The wind was from the westward in shore.
At 12:37 p. m. Defender and Vigilant were still becalmed, or almost so, about three miles from the first mark. Valkyrie was about a mile away on her way back to the lightship and seemed to have caught the breete, for she was going right along.
At 1:12 p. m. Defender and Vigilant were slowly creeping up towards the mark boat under the influence of a light breese from the southward. They were both heading off shore and Defender had a good lead.
Defender rounded the first mark at about

MOTHER AND CHILD BURNED.

Mrs. Sullivan Severely Injured in Res-cuing Her Son From Flames.

A reckless attempt to burn a lot of wasfe paper caused Mrs. Mary Sullivan, 3818 St. Louis avenue, and her 13-year-old son Barnis to be nearly burned to death at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The boy ventured too near the flames, which isnited his clothing and ran over his body like a flash. In attempting to rescue her child Mrs. Sullivan's dress also caught fire and both were frightfully burned. Their screams attracted a passer-by who succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Both are now confined to bed by their injuries, but will recover.

GOLD OUTFLOW.

Treasury Officials Think the Current, Will Soon Cease.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Treasury officials regard the outward tide of gold exports nearly at an end. They hold that the next ten days may show a slight outgo, or possibly a slight return, though indications point towards a reduction in the rate of exchange preliminary to a gold import movement, which can be deferred another thirty days. The fact that the current rate of exchange still remains at 4.89 to 4.90 brings out the prophecy that when the fall does come it will be all the more rapid. It is now asserted that the bond syndicate have been pleased at the recent gold outflow, the gold exported having been drawn more from current circulation, where it will not be missed, than from the banks, where a demand for it exists.

It is one of the strangest cases of suicid at 200 Lynch street.

The suicide evidently swallowed the poison before she went to bed. She occupied the same room with her mother, whom she awakened by getting up to get a drink of water. About 2:30 o'clock she was seized with convulsions. Her mother was not alarmed, however, until the sufferer relapsed into a semi-unconscious condition. About 5 o'clock when the pain became unbearable the girl told her mother she had taken poison.

Her father started at once to summon a physician. Dr. Fischer, 200 South Jefferson avenue, was called, but did not arrive until nearly 8 o'clock. He administered emetics and did all in his power to save the patient, but she was beyond relief and at 9 o'clock she died.

There is no apparent reason why the girl lead to the belief that she contemplated doing otherwise.

"Once, several months ago, I heard her say she would commit suicide," said Miss Krebs, "but she gave no reason, and as she did not appear to have anything on her mind I paid no attention to her. She never seemed to have any troubles and I don't think she cared for any young man in particular. She treated them all alike. Of course, she may have met some one on the way home and gone somewhere, but I can't imagine who it could be or where they went."

Miss Sekberger was a seamstress and worked our Missouri avenue. She worked every day and her parents say she was a dutiful gir, When she came home nobody heard her but her mother and she claims not to have scolded her for remaining out

The most exciting event at the South Side ace track Wednesday night was not on the programme. Constable Ed Hunt of the First District went out there to serve attachment papers on a horse owned by Jim Curran. Scarcely did the Constable put in an appearance when he found himself rolling in the dirt with Jim Curran astride of his neck. Officer Quinlan rescued the Constable and run both combatants outside of the fence, where they again got mixed up and slugged each other so vigorously that Quinlan, to prevent murder, called the hoodlum wagon and took both of them to the station. They will tell Judge Peabody their troubles later on.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.-Minister Ranom was at the State Department to-day, and after taking the oath of office and holding a conference with Acting Secretary Adee, expressed his intention of starting on his journey to Mexico within the next few days. His health is improved to such an extent that he thinks he will be able to endure the high altitude better than during his first stay there.

It is understood that one of Mr. Ransom's principal missions will be to induce Mexico to recede from the position she has taken on the extradition of American criminals who have fled to that country and have announced their intention of becoming citizens. ing a conference with Acting Secretary turning harmony in the Democratic ranks. He received the Post-Dispatch correspondent with characteristic cordiality, but said "You must excuse me from an interview. The condition of the party as well as my own political affairs are in such a critical position just at present that any statement I might make at this time would tend to aggravate matters, and so irritate the opposition as to complicate the situation beyond the hope of repair in time for victory in November. You can say, however, that so far as my interests are concerned within the party, I feel perfectly safe. The fight from this time on, is between me and the Republican organization. Either I or a Republican will be elected United States Senator by the Legislature."

"But Senator, news from Washington says the Administration is preparing to throw Secretary Carlisle into the fight to beat you," was suggested.

"That's all fub-dubbery," quickly responded Senator Blackburn. "The original intention of the opposition to me was to force Carlisle to the front, and send him back to the Senate if possible, but the campaign has so abaged itself that no opening is left for Carlisle, and he cannot possibly get in the race. The fight has got beyond his control."

THREE BADLY INJURED.

Serious Wreck on the Big Four Road Near Danville, Ill.

DANVILLE, III., Aug. 29.—A serious wreck occurred on the Big Four Railroad, fourteen miles west of here. The rear trucks of the freight car in front of the trucks of the freight car in frost of the caboose slipped out, throwing the caboose off the track and mashing it to pieces. Three were badly injured:

Burgess, Frank, of Ran Diego, Cal., three ribs broken: recovery doubtful.

Duncan, Bamuel, of Little Rock, Ark., back and hips badly bruised.

Gray, James, of St. Louis, Mo., injured internally; will die.

All of these were railroad men seeking employment and did not belong to the crew.

The Big Four officials in St. Louis say that the men injured were tramps, who were stealing a ride on the train, which was a freight. The directory affords no clew to the identity of James Gray, supposed to be from this city, as there are a number of laborers by that name.

Rev. Thomas Schea of St. Kevin's Church poke a few words to the novices before the eception. He dwelt on the rigors of the order, not as something to make the flesh reep, but as means of obtaining glorious piritual rewards. He spoke from the tandpoint of religion. The congregation tot given to abnegation were not carried way by his words as were the novices within the altar railing. To them there was othing but exceeding sadness in the sight of three young women forsaking the world in dits pleasures to enter with open eyes and villing hearts a living tomb.

willing hearts a living tomb.

The ascerticism of the Carmelite order has not been shorn of its medieval yigor. The members live entirely shut out from the world. Bars of iron and dark places hide their abode. Over their face forever hangs a black vell. Their day is divided between work and prayer. Their nights are broken into watches when they rise from their beds of pine boards and rushes for prayer and contemplation. Only twice a year do they allow themselves the comfort and sustenance of fiesh meat. Perpetual prayer and penance is their round of existence. All bodily comfort, all delights of the eye, and of the eafs, and the palate, they push away from them. To a worldling it seems madness, but Victor Hugo said: "There must be some who pray always for those who pray never."

This morning's ceremony was a pathetic mingling of joy and sadness. The religious reception is the bridal ceremony of the church, wherein the youthful novice comes to the altar draped in bridal robes to become the spouse of Christ. The three novices entered the chancel dressed in white and decked with orange blossoms. Each leaned on the arm of a bridemaid. They knelt before the altar of their invisible spouse while the Archbishop recited mass. At the conclusion the bridemaids led the novices to the cloister gate, there was a farewell kiss and a separation that meant the severance of all human ties. When the grating closed the novices were cut off forever from the outer world.

The chapel of the Carmelites is divided into two parts. The outer chapel, into which the public is admitted, contains the altar. On either side there is a wooden grating; immediately behind this is a row of iron bars. Beyond these again hangs a black pall. By this means the community is shut out from all contact with the outer world. This morning when the nowices approached the grating the pall was drawn aside, revealing the interior of the cloister chapel. There are no side windows and the light filtered down from a skylight above on a double-row of nuns standing, candle in hand, on either side of the room. Each was garbed in the brown habit of the order; across the shoulders was a white mantle; the face and breast was cavered by a black well. As the novices entered the choir the community chanted a Latin hymn in a weird monotone. Then the three young women knelt near the grating, where the Archbishop questioned them about their wish to enter the order. The Prioress then led the novices out of the choir and stripped them of their worldly garments. They returned shortly clad in the plain garb of the order.

Approaching the railing they were invested with the girdle and mantle and the scapular of Mount Carmel. Then the Archbishop blessed them and sprinkled them with holy water and they were led to the foot of the altar, where they prostrated themselves with outstretched arms in the form of a cross and were covered with a pall to symbolize their living burial from the world.

This ended the ceremony of reception, and at its conclusion the new Sisters kissed the hand of the Mother Superior and embraced in turn the rest of the community. Meanwhile the pall behind the gratings was drawn and nothing but the sunlight and the far-off sounds of the city found its way into the cloister to remind the novices of the world outside.

world outside.

Miss Eva O'Neil acted as bridemaid for Miss Reno, who becomes in religion St. Mary Stanislaus; Miss Eugenia Dunn was bridemaid for her sister, who will be known as Sister Mary Raphael, and Miss Helen Dunn escorted Miss Annie Helmerie, whose religious title is St. Mary Alphonsus.

Important Land Case in Iowa. SIOUX CITY, Aug. 29.—An important case involving the title to accretion land has been filed in the District Court here. When the Government survey was made a bayou over 600 acres in extent was found off the Missouri some miles below Sioux City. Meander lines were run around it, and when the water afterwards drained off, settlers squatted on it as Government land. A. T. Bigelow, who owns land on both sides of it, now asks that the settlers be evicted on the ground that it is accretion land and belongs to him. There are many hundred acres in the county over which there is a similar dispute and this case will be made a test.

Circulating Gold Standard Literature

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—A report has gone-dorth that Ed O'Rear, Chief Clerk in the State Treasury, was busy disseminating "sound money" literature. It is needless to say that there is no truth in any such report. But this much has been ascertained about the circulation of such literature: At "sound money" headquarters arrangements have been made to have the various county school commissioners and superintendents furnish a complete list of all district school clerks and directors in the several counties and to such clerks and directors, throughout the State, "sound money" literature is to be sent. In such a way the goldites propose to prosecute their campaign of education in Missoari. pecial to The Post-Disputch.

Johnson is one of the three desperadoes whe assauited Jaller Wood of, this city and escaped from jall about six weeks ago. Mr. Wood, the man whom Johnson left for dead then, was the person who recaptured him and returned him to prison. Wyatt still lingers in prison, with one chance in ten for his recovery. From what Johnson says, the band is completely broken up.

the matter, and more may follow, as the neighbors have taken sides. John Fleming, the blacksmith, lives there, and next door east John Graupner has his frame residence, butcher shop and slaughter-house. Graupner wants to finish painting his house. Flem ing objects. As Graupner's west wall is flush with the dividing line, necessitating his entering Fleming's front yard to finish the job, the latter's objections are a serious the job, the latter's objections are a serious obstacle.

All that is required of Graupner before he can enter Fleming's domain is that he "apologize." Rather than do this he has consulted Attorney John B. Dempsey and wants to go to law. Even the law can't help him, for he learned from Mr. Dempsey that Fleming owns not only the ground in his yard, but all the atmosphere above it and within its boundaries as far as the blue vault of Heaven, and that for him to stick his head out of the windowaoverlooking Fleming's yard would constitute trespass.

Graupner's first attempt was on Monday. The week prior he had several painters at work and they put three nice coats of white paint on three sides and the eaves. Anyone approaching the place from the east couldn't help but remark upon its neat appearance. From the west it looks worse than the new City Hall.

Monday Graupner had to take the painters

Monday Graupner had to take the painters into Fleming's front yard. Four years ago, in order to keep Graupner and the latter's family from the premises, Fleming placed a big sign on the front fence: "Beware of the Dog." Graupner had hardly overcome the painters' fears at this sign, and ladined them to start work, than the entire Fleming family poured from the Fleming domicile; Mr. and Mrs. Fleming and the two Fleming boys, as big, strapping young fellows as the sons of a blacksmith ever are. Each was armed with a revolver.

"Git, you blatherskites!" commanded Fleming.

"Git, you biatherskites!" commanded Fleming.

"Git, you spalpeens!" echoed the rest of the family, and the only reason no shots were fired was that they "got."

Tuesday Graupner conceived a brilliant plan. Taking the painters to his roof, he had them lower their scaffold. They got one thin coat on the wall half way down, when the Fleming family realized what they were up to and drove great big timbers into the ground, athwart the house, so that the ladier-scaffold could not descend any lower.

The one coat of paint on half the wall makes it look as though someone had poured skimmed milk down from the roof. The posts add to the hilarious aspect from the west.

add to the hilarious aspect from the west.

To one not a resident of Natural Bridge road the hostilities between Fleming and Graupner would be ridiculous. They take such things seriously on "The Road," as anyone in the vicinity calls that highway. The residents chiefly side with Graupner. Mrs. Fleming, as she told a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday, is the "only Irish woman on "The Road," from the Fair Grounds to King's highway," and has not been having as good a time as a darkey in a watermelon patch since the neighborhood began filling up with German residents. Mrs. Fleming is the cause of Graupner's failure to paint his house. She and her husband were living there when the country round was boundless prairie. Then Graupner came along and put up his butcher shop and residence and added a slaughter-house, which spoiled the view from the Flemings' dining-room and interfered with the enjoyment of their meals.

"He used to be up to slaughtering hogs and cows by the dozens while we were eating," declared Fleming, "and he'd throw what he couldn't use to what animals he left alive and never once had it hauled away. It smelt horrible."

In the inevitable lawsuit Graupner won and the slaughter-house is there yet. That was four years ago, and directly after the suit Mrs. Fleming happened to meet Graupner on the prairie.

"Without even passing the time of day," suit Mrs. Fleming nappened to meet Graup-ner on the prairie.

"Without even passing the time of day," said Mrs. Fleming Wednesday, "he ups and calls me out of my name. The most out-landish talk I ever heard.

"That was four years ago and I'll not let him paint his house until he apologizes.
When he does he can come into my yard

"I'll not apologize for something I never did." declared Graupner. "I don't know what they're driving at. I was looking out the window there yesterday and Mrs. Fleming yelled at me that I'd turned her mother over in her grave. I don't even know where her mother's buried."

So great is the dislike entertained by the Flemings for Graupner that every stranger is challenged before he is admitted, for fear he is the enemy's emissary. The Post-Dispatch reporter was stopped at the front gate with a threat of the dog, until a parley had been held as to his business.

"Oh; excuse me, I thought you were one of Graupner's men," applogized Mrs. Fleming.

Ing.

The chances are that Graupner can't get near enough to the Flemings to apologise if he wants to."

It has remained for a St. Louis girl to liscover the key to the solution of the In-lian problem, a task that has for years laxed the ifigenuity of legislators to no pur-pose and baffled the administrative powers of able men. The acy of the old methods soon became it to her and she broached the idea ing her school room into a kinder-of turning her school room into a antergarten.

This proposition was too much out of the usual rut, not to meet with objections, but finally, after considerable red tape correspondence with the Interior Department, Miss Thomas had her way and entered on her new work. Her success was astonishing, even to the most 'experienced Indian teachers. It was in the latter part of October, 1894, when she took in hand forty-two little aborigines, just off the reservations, none of whom knew a word of English, or had the slightest desire to learn anything about the white men's ways and doings.

anything about the white men's ways and doings.

Miss Thomas quickly changed all this. When Christmas came she was able to stand her class in a row and have them recite in concert. Last June, at the closing exercises of the school, they gave separate recitations and dialogues, to the intense amusement of the audience.

Miss Thomas' little fellows became the talk and pride of the school.

The government inspector when he visited the school last June quickly noted all this. A man of wide experience in such matters, he quickly saw the importance of the work being done by Miss Thomas, and his report to the department embodied his ideas. As a result of this report the kindergarten system will be extended as rapidly as possibly throughout the Government Indian schools, and Miss Thomas will be the principal instrument of this extension.

MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN.

Joseph Danforth's Unsuccessful Attempt to Raid a Charivari.

Joseph H. Danforth, a widower, aged 3 ears, and Mrs. Maggie Craycraft, a widow of 32, were deeply in love with each other and wanted to be married.

As Danforth's wife has not been dead quite a year, and Mrs. Craycraft's hus-band shuffled off only eighteen months ago, they were afraid of a "charivari." A ago, they were arraid of a "charivari." A bright idea struck Mrs. Craycraft and yesterday she suggested they go to Clayton. Accordingly Joseph procured a carriage from J. H. Gebken's livery stable, 222 Gravois avenue, where he is employed as a carriage driver, and went to Clayton; where Justice Wengler pronounced them "man and wife."

and wife."

On the return trip they were chuckling over the clever manner in which they had outwitted their friends, and reaching St. Louis, repaired to 2614 Missouri avenue, where a neat little flat had been fitted upwith the erstwhile Mrs. Craycraft's furniture.

But in some unaccountable manner the secret leaked out and some of Danforth's friends around the stable heard of it. The cue was then "tipped off" to the whole neighborhood and in half an hour a crowd of nearly 100 assembled in front of Danforth's house

Danforth capitulated and bought beer all around.

This morning when a Post-Dispatch man visited the scene, the place was a sight to behold. The street in front of the house was covered with old tin cans and buckets, pieces of chains, antediluvian coal souttles and superannuated dish pans.

The front of the house and porch was inartistically decorated with overly-matured tomatoes, decayed vegetables and red clay. Danforth when seen said: "I don't look very much like an eloper, do I? Come in and see the bride. She is a widow 22 and I am 39, so I think we are old enough to get married if we want to. We have already the start of an interesting family, as my wife has three children and so have I. The only reason we went to Clayton was to 'fool' our friends and avoid a 'charivari,' but they 'caught on' and gave it to us anyway."

These are the things Rev. Wright is charged with. Mrs. Carrie Stuart, the minister's sister, told them to City Physician Jordan at the Dispensary Thursday morning, and it was again told to Chief Harrigan's secretary. Fred Lucas, and again to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson. The object of all this iteration and reiteration was to get the city authorities to check the wild career of the ex-shepherd of a Baptist flock by putting him in an insane asylum. Matters have not yet been arranged, but an investigation will be made, and if the minister has not been grossly slandered by his own flesh and blood the chances are he will have no opportunity to kiss women save in imagination in some insane ward. Rev. Wright lives at 694 Fyler avenue, which is out by Clifton Heights. He is about 25 years old and is a son of Maj. Wright. He has been retired from the Baptist ministry some years. In the days when he used to exhort his congregation to be good and go to bed early, he practiced strictly what he preached, and was known for his exceptional piety. No wonder then that when he began to get so gay the neighborhood was scandalized and the family heart-broken over his antics.

His kissing scrapes with the pretty women in the neighborhood were reaching a dangerous pass, for the divine was no respector of persons. The family concluded that his mind was turned and decided to take steps to have him examined.

A member of the association stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter that one of the chief causes was activity on the part of Gen. Jo Shelby, the ex-Confederate hero and United States Marshal at Kansas City, in opposing Mr. Clark and seeking his removal. In order to exhibit their confidence in the superintendent the members voted him an increase of salary. Gen. Shelby did not attend the reunion.

Secretary Barlow of the association was asked about the matter by a Post-Dispatch reporter. He declined to discuss Gen. Shelby's alleged antagonism.

"Stories have been circulated concerning Mr. Clark's management of the home," said Capt. Barlow, "that have been calculated to injure it. One of the charges was that Mr. Clark and his pets' were drunk half the time; another that the home was being run extravagantly, and cruelly. As a matter of fact the superintendent never took a drink in his life. One of the statements, made by a certain lady, was that the institution paid 3700 a year for ice. As a matter of fact, the ice costs us just 320 for 250 tons. Because the public is always inclined to believe that a public institution is mismanaged because it is a public institution, all hese matters were investigated and found without foundation. On account of them and the antagonism to Mr. Clark in certain quarters, we raised his salary."

Plack, a brother of Grocer Plack at Old Orchard, evolved a scheme to get the money. Together they forged Max Bion's name to checks amounting to about $500. These checks were in small amounts, ranging from $20 to $124.

CORPORATION USES AND ABUSES.

Judge Taft remarked in his Bar Assomodern society corporations are indis-pensable to material progress" and are among "the greatest instruments for good that social man has devised.

This is true when they confine themselves to their legitimate business purposes. But when they make politics an adjunct of business and dictate laws and control courts in order to increase their profits and secure immunity for violation of the law they become one of the greatest instruments of evil known to society. When they run parties, pack conventions, corrupt legislatures and own judges, there is justification for popular fear and

It is not the use, but the abuse of corporation's that excites resentment and government in which organized greed mes a dominating factor can maintain the rights and liberties of the peodency of corporations to dominate parwhich led Abraham Lincoln to say that the growth of corporations and of corporate power is a greater menace to our institutions than the Civil War.

Little nurture is required to develop the possibilities of good in corporations, but eternal vigilance is needed to guard against their possibilities of evil, and it behooves judges and lawyers, who are the instruments upon which corporations must depend to develop their evil possibilities, to consider whither they are lead-

Judge Taft could have dwelt most beneficially on these corporate possibilities and tendencies and could have cited apt illustrations from the records of his own court.

ANOTHER JOHN W. FOSTER.

A Washington dispatch in the local Republican organ throws light on the motive which induced Mr. Olney change from a course of masterly inactivity to one of vigorous energy whe the office of Secretary of State.

The dispatch states that Mr. Olney is determined to make a record in foreign affairs. He will enforce the Monroe doctrine and defend the rights of Americans on foreign soil. Particular stress is laid upon the Mora claim, the publication of the correspondence regarding which, it is said, will demonstrate in signal degree the firmness and ability of the Secretary. All of this is interesting and tends to make the bosom of Americans swell with proud admiration of the statesman who is conducting our foreign affairs, until the explanation is reached. The nub of ormation is in the last paragraph which states that Secretary Olney, "beinterested in himself than in the Administration, and having an eye out for international business after the end of this Administration, proposes to improve his present opportunities."

The cat is out of the bag. The reason of Secretary Olney's new found official vigor is clear. Inactivity was money in the Attorney Generalship and activity is ney in the Secretaryship of State. Mr. Olney's breast is stirred to emu-lation by the news of the $100,000 fee John W. Foster received from China. Having so conducted the Attorney Gen-

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

n his speech last night to the gold ndard men of Jefferson City Mr. F. W.

Lehman asked these questions:

If we are to so into the next campaignees are to so into the next campaignees. ing Cleveland as the hireling of cor-capital, the designing tool of the ey changers, what shall we say for elves, who three times held him up as highest type of American citizenship? so held him up, not only when in the who so held him up, not only when in the broad field of national affairs he was yet untried, but when he had been tried through long years—tried in victory and tried in defeat? Let those who now speak of the cloven foot answer why they did not speak of it sooner. Let those who now complain of the betrayal of public trust answer why they so long held so different a tone. Why have they been so long on the road to Damascus?

Presuming that these questions are asked in good faith, the Post-Dispatch will answer them.

We are not aware that any one has de nounced Mr. Cleveland as "the hireling of corporate capital," or "the designing tool of the money changers." What has been charged against Mr. Cleveland is that in the contest for tariff reform at the last session of Congress, he falled to represent the views of his party and to redeem the pledges on which the na-tional campaign of 1892 was won—the Wilson bill, even as framed by the House, being a lame and impotent conclusion of the long fight for tariff reform. Also, that when the Democrats in national convention assembled adopted a com-promise on the money question in order to avoid a party split, he forced that question to the front as soon as Congress assembled, divided his party hope essly, and is now stultifying his party's record by trying to commit the Demo rats to a monetary policy dictated by Wall street and which they have deounced for twelve years.

The reason Democrats did not soone enounce Mr. Cleveland is that they did not believe that he would so grossly deceive them. They believed that he would stand honestly and squarely on the platform which his friends framed and which he accepted. It is a slow lesson for Democrats to learn that a President elected by them would utterly ignore the will of his party and in spite of their protests try to align it under John Sher-

Democrats had been accustomed to re gard Mr. Cleveland as both candid and courageous. They trusted him enough to believe that if he interpreted the money plank in the national platform to mean gold monometallism, he would say so in time for the people to pass upon it. They did not believe that he would equivocate and obscure the issue until after his election and then surrender the Treasury to a foreign syndicate and allow his financial policy to be controlled by New York bankers.

They were deceived. As soon as they liscovered it they began to speak out. The elections of 1894 showed how they felt about it. The elections of 1895 and 1896 will show their feelings still more clearly if Mr. Cleveland persists in his

THE PUBLIC LIGHTING PROBLEM.

The Board of Public Improvements is acting wisely in taking up the subject of public lighting at this time in anticipation of the expiration of the present contract, four and a half years hence. This period is none too long for thorough work of preparation.

Great advances have been made in electric lighting since the city's first contract was made. Although that contract was thought to be remarkably favorable and was when compared with the contracts of many other cities, the Postin the current number of the Arena that our prices are far in excess of the actual cost of electric lighting. Cities which own and operate their own plants ob-tain their public lighting at from onehalf to one-fifth of the cost of thos which have contracts with private com panies. Cities that sell light to private consumers are enabled at low rates to make sufficient profit to defray the whole cost of public lighting.

The Board's committee should investigate municipal plants with a view to devising a plan that will enable St. Louis to run its own plant, or at least put it in a position to deal independently with private contractors. If laws are needed to this end, there is time enough to get

The Board will do its full duty only by being prepared to submit to the Municimbly the cheapest and most effi cient method of public lighting.

The meaning of Birdie Allendale is apparent. Any one who sings under any circumstances and against all opposition is Birdie Allendale. Kentucky has a winning Birdie Allendale in P. The Pennsylvania Republicans have followed the example of the Missouri Democrats and established the rule that the Chairman of the State Executive Committee shall be elected by the convention, instead of being named by the candidate or elected by the State Com mittee as heretofore. The change is undoubtedly in the interest of good politics, in spite of the fact that Quay is the first chairman elected by the convention. convention election means that no small henchman of a boss can obtain the im-portant place of chairman, and the various corrupting influences that have here tofore been brought to bear on the mem bere of the State Committee will be ren dered futile. A man of standing and State reputation will be the only that will have a chance of election in a State Convention.

When Jefferson formulated the lessgovernment-the-better doctrine he did not expect it to be interpreted to mean that the merit of an official is mes by his vacations. But our city adminis-tration is Republican and cannot be expected to understand Jeffersonian doctrine. Besides, Mr. Jefferson would probably have indorsed that interpretation in the case of Republican officials.

THAT BENEDICT INTERVIEW. land's Financial Policy?

land's Financial Policy?

Holland in the Philadelphia Press.
Ever since Mr. E. C. Benedict's partners received several hours before any one else in this city knew it the important information that Mr. Cleveland was going to summon Congress in extraordinary session, so that the Sherman law might be repealed, Wall street has assumed that Mr. Benedict's connections with the Administration were almost of telephonic cloaceses. Therefore when Mr. Benedict announces that it will be a bad day for the Democracy if it does not stand upon a financial platform which contains a plank calling for the withdrawal of the greenbacks he is very naturally supposed to give some hint of Mr. Cleveland's view upon these matters. lew upon these matters.

view upon these matters.

It did cause a little surprise that Mr. Benedict should have been either bold or cunning enough to intimate that the time had come for the creation of a new party, piedged to bring about sound and permanent financial systems for the Treasury and the people. But Mr. Benedict is sometimes impulsive, and it has been thought that that suggestion was made before he had carefully weighed his words.

Mr. Benedict's pretty yacht, the Oneida, steamed into Greenwich narbor last Thurssteamed into Greenwich teamed into Greenwich narbor last Thurs day morning, bringing Mr. Benedict back from an excursion to Gray Gables. On the following day he made these public assertions. His intimacy with the President is due partly to the fondness of each of them for the salt water, and very considerably to the passion each of them has for the gam of cribbage. Mr. Benedict's friends say tha he is a more expert fisherman than the President, and yet cares far less for that sport than Cleveland does. But whatever their common tastes may be for pastimes and outdoor recreations, these do not absorb them so that they have no time to talk upon business or financial conditions. The intimacy is so close that no doubt during conversations upon the financial situatio Mr. Benedict continues to address the Pres ident as "Admiral," while Mr. Cleveland does not fail to say 'Commodore' when he wants to rpeak to Mr. Benedict. Therefore, Mr. Benedict would have been careful not to say anything which might prove embarrassing for Mr. Cleveland, only two or three months before Mr. Cleveland is to find Congress.

etuous as he is, Mr. Benedict does not go off at half-cock, at least when political or financial subjects in which Mr. Cleveland all, there is nothing really astonishing in this assertion of Mr. Benedict's, and those who have reason to believe that they have accurate information of Mr. Cleveland's view say that Mr. Benedict represents that view very accurately. The Press has already reported that Mr. Cleveland is believed by the leading members of the Reform Club to be in c accord with the view set forth by that club formally at a meeting in the spring. In a word, that opinion is that the financial interest of this country requires first of all a gold standard or measure of money. Second, that the greenbacks should be withdrawn as rapidly as possible from cir-culation and destroyed. Third, that private capital be permitted wherever and whenever it chooses to embark in the banking business, and that the Government should lay no restraining hand upon these partnerships or corporations to prevent their issuing notes. Next that national banking should be made as free as possible, and that the security for the national bank notes should be established by a reserve fund rather than by a deposit of bonds, Mr. Benedict limited his suggestion to the retirement of the greenbacks, but if he rep resents Mr. Cleveland's view that is only part of the programme which Cleveland's friends, led by the Reform Club, and preably, by and by, by Mr. Cleveland himself have now in mind.

AURORA, Ill., Aug. 29.-Twelve prisoners escaped from the County Jail at Geneva last night during the absence of Sheriff Robert Burke, who was in this city serving legal Burke, who was in this city serving legal papers. A searching party was quickly organized and all of the towns within a radius of forty miles were notified of the affair. Two of the prisoners who had not succeeded in getting very far were run down by the posse and captured. The other ten are yet at large. It is thought the escape was engineered by James O'Brien, known in police circles as "Prairle Jim." It is said interested Chicago parties were very anxious for Jim's escape to prevent his "squealing." In some manner an iron bar came into the possession of the prisoners, and with this bar they managed to break the locks and reach the corridor. They then smashed the lock which fastened the window bar. It was then an easy matter to jump out on the ground and escape.

Weeds and Malaria.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

A writer demands that the weeds in abuurbs be cut down, on the ground if they may cause malaria. On what auth ity does this cleim rest? Many 'peo seem to have this idea, which I cannot is reasonable. Weeds are only plants which we have not as yet discovered use. Many of them are medicinal; othe like the Golden Bod, are beautiful. As id as they are growing, they, of course, are unwholesome. If you cut them do like the Golden Bod, are beautiful. As long as they are growing, they, of course, are not unwholesome. If you cut them down while green, you strew them to rot in the hot sun. If left for the frost, they will die at a time when they can do least harm. As a matter of fact, most of them stand and dry up gradually. I think the maiaria idea connected with weeds is a sanitary bogey of the first rank.

the Democratic Tariff.

NEW YORK, August 3.—The World tolay prints a letter from Postmaster-Genral Wilson, giving his views on the benefits the country is deriving from the Democratic

The country is beginning to see to-day

"With temporarily diminished exports, thiefly in food products—in no way due to the recent tariff legislation, we behold in a single year an increasing volume of manufactured products sent abroad. This already appears in our exports of agricultural mahinery, building hardware, locomotive ensines and iron and steel goods generally;
also in leather and manufactures of leather; in planes and organs, paper manufactures and many other items of the Treasury statement, issued, at the close of the fiscal year.

"In all of these industries the wages of WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.-The protes against the manufacture and sale of beer by the Benedictines of St. Vincent Abbey of the Benedictines of St. Vincent Abbey of Beatty, Pa., is still under consideration by Archbishop Satolii. A second protest has been received here, this time coming from a temperance society of Buffalo, of which Rev. Father Zurcher is President. Mgr. Satolii has sent a letter to the Benedictines referring to the complaints. They have forwarded a response saying that there were no scandal connected with the sale of beer, which they stated was done merely to cover the cost of manufacture for their own consumption and the expense of the internal revenue tax. The total amount manufactured, it was stated, was in the neighborhood of four barrels a week, which they regarded as an insignificant output. The Benedictines announce, however, their readiness to see what can be done in the matter to quiet the criticisms. A second letter has just reached the Archbishop in which the Benedictines refer to a pamphlet circulated in Pennsylvania criticising their production of beer and reiterate their attitude already outlined. Mgr. Satolii has not so far formulated any definite opinion in regard to the matter.

ROGER CONNOR TO THE RESCUE.

The Browns' Ex-First Baseman Has Been Re-Signed.

AN EMERGENCY NOW EXISTS

Mayer of Paterson, N. J., Has Been Signed to Play Third and Samuels Is on the Bench.

A telegram from Washington announces that Chris Von der Ahe has re-signed Roger Conner and that the ex-first be-seman of the owns will resume his >lace on the initial of the news may or may not be good for St. Louis fans, but Connor will be better the St. Louis fans, but Connor will be better than nobody and everybody on first.

Connor was once one of the star players of the Clants and when he got stale he was released and Chris picked him up. For awhile he played good ball, but this season he was simply rank and nobody realized that more than Roger. He felt that he was not up to form and, therefore, tendered his resignation to Von der Ahe, which was accepted, though he neither asked for nor obtained his release. He stated that he would be willing to respond again should his services be needed and Chris and "Manager" Phelan have decided that such an emergency exists.

When Connor left, Sheehan of the Little tocks was given a trial on first, but he was lot a success there. Since then anyone who was at hand was put in the place.
Connor is expected to join the team in Washington at once.

Another scene of many shifts in the Browns has been third base, and now that hole is said to be filled by the signature of a young man named Mayer of Paterson, N. J., to one of Chris's contracts. Denny Lyon was playing a great game on the next-to-home bag, when he was seriously injured. He continued to play until he was ordered to bed. Miller was sent out to fill Denny's shoes, but he could not do it, and finally he went behind the bat and Petiz made a stab at it. One trial of Kinloch was enough, and then Dowd had his turn. At last Samuels was signed, but the little fellow is not well seasoned and he was sent home from New York, but not released and Miller again took the station. Mayer is thought to be all right, but he may prove another Kinloch.

Anent Denny Lyon's troubles, the ex-

Anent Denny Lyon's troubles, the exthird baseman has laid his differences with Chris before the National Board and will claim the salary he was docked while laid up. Denny was hurt in the service of the Browns and had to take to his bed. Chris demanded that he move from his boardinghouse because it was over a saloon, and Lyons was unable to comply. Thereupon he was laid off without salary until he obeyed the order of the President of the, Sportsman's Park Club. Denny foolishly tried to play before he was well, and that resulted in his release. Chris could do no better now than to get Lyons back on third.

If Tim Hurst wanted to celebrate his re-

If Tim Hurst wanted to celebrate his return to the bail field, he could not have done a more inauspicious thing than to call the Browns-Washington game Wednesday at the end of the first haif of the eighth. It looked like a mere pretense, his refusal to call the game before the Washingtons went to the bat in the eighth, and he only waited for two men to step to the plate before doing it, as a subterfuge. It was a rank piece of business, Mr. Hurst.

ROBBED BY HURST.

The Browns Won Fairly But Were Cheated Out of the Game.

The Browns won Wednesday's game from Washington, but were held up by Tim Hurst. The score stood 5 to 5 in the seventh inning, and Washington wanted the game called on account of darkness. Hurst refused. The Browns made three runs in the eighth, and for the Washingtons one man had struck out. Then Hurst called the game and the score went back to even innings. The score:

Browns 1 3 0 1 0 0 0 5
Washington 1 0 0 4 0 0 0 5

J. Earle Wagner thinks he has a great find in young Corbett.

Pittsburg will have to take a decided brace if they want to hold third place.

If the pennant is to be brought West, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville will have to help Cleveland win games.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

"Cleveland has no hope of winning the fiag, but Tebeau's men are simply striving to get a whack at the Temple cup receipts," says Buck Ewing.

Cleveland has won more series than any other club in the League. There are five series to the Spiders' credit, three of them being from the East, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Washington, Louisville and St. Louis being the victims.

Boston has recalled Jimmy Collins from Louisville, returning the $50 which the tailenders paid for Jimmy.

Second Baseman Lowe of Boston had one of the small bones in his foot broken recently by a foul ball.

The lowa State League has disbanded. Dubuque and Burlington want to join the Western Association.

Frank Genins, the North St. Louis boy, is playing a winning game at short for the Pittsburg Pirates.

The first race horse Patton and Morris ever owned was Bill Dillon, who raced in their colors away back in the 70s. Later ors they owned Egypt, Bersan, Ten Stone, Freeman, Drake Carter and other thoroughbreds that made the firm name famous in American turf history, and gave Morris his great reputation as a trainer and judge of horse fiesh. Patton and Morris get together often at the Fair Grounds nowadays, and the former never gets tired thanking Morris for buying Gold Bug, the dam of Ethel Gray, of whom Mr. Patton thinks the world.

Miss Galop and Probasco, two very bad post actors, lined up in the fifth race at the Fair Grounds Wednesday and caused a delay of forty-five minutes at the post. Miss Galop in particular was feeling gay and cut up all kinds of capers. After wearing herself almost out, she took a notion to run away, and by the time her jockey brought her to a standstill she was completely exhausted. When this fact became evident to the judges they ordered the starter to send the field off without her. Bets were allowed to stand, which practically burned up all the money wagesged on her, but it was a matter of little consequence, as she had no chance, even if she had been permitted to start.

FREE STREET CAR RIDES.

New Order on the Broadway Line,
Owing to H. H. Timken.

The Broadway cable line has a new rule which is certainly a novelty in the street car business. Hereafter any man who wishes to may ride on this line free of charge
The conductors have received orders to allow persons who refuse to pay their fare to remain on the car as long as they please.
This rule arises from trouble which Conductor George Menifee had with Henry
H. Timken of the Timken Carriage Co.,
Broadway and Branch street, and which resuited in Menifee's being discharged.

One evening about ten days ago, accordding to the story of the street; car men, Mr.
Timken hailed Menifee's car in the middle of the block west of Branch street, and which recar, in accordance with the rules of the company, did not stop and Mr. Timken, catching on as best he could, sat down in a towering rage.

The lecture retused to give it to him, because a more emphatic refusal than ever, so he says.

"I will pay when I get good and ready," said Mr. Timken.
Orders are orders on the Broadway line, and one of the orders at that time was that no passenger should be permitted to ride free. Remembering this, Conductor Menifee pulled the bell and invited Timken tr alight. This invitation was refused, and serious trouble was threatened. The gripman started for the rear coach and Mr. Timken would have probably been landed in the street, when an acquaintance of his, who was on the car, stopped the trouble by paying the fare.
Two days later Menifee was laid off, and

In a short time the St. Louis Car Company will have a branch factory at some point in the East. Messrs. Kiing and Kobusch, of that company, recently inspected the plant of the Glibert Car Company at Troy, N. Y., with a view to purchase, but found it antiquated and unsuitable to their purposes. It is said that they now contemplate the location of their branch at or near Philadelphia.

The purpose of the company in locating a branch factory in the East is to save freight charges. Herstofore the finished cars have been shipped at heavy expense. Under the new arrangement cars will be made up as usual in St. Louis, but not put together. The wood work and rolling stock will be shipped, "knocked down," to the Eastern branch and there put together and inished by expert workmen. By this means a heavy saving in freight charges will be effected. but was ordered out of the factory, in forcible language.

A Post-Dispatch reporter met with more courteous treatment at Mr. Timken's hands, but he refused to make any statement.

Wednesday morning Capt. McCullough caused an order to be issued to all conductors, that if any passenger refused to pay fare, he or she must be permitted to ride free. In consequence of this order, the conductors expect to be relieved of a great deal of trouble, as they have heretofore had numerous cases of refusal to pay fare on the part of druken or disgranted passengers. The custom, in which they have always been supported by the management, of the road, has been to stop the car and eject the murily person.

who was on the car, stopped the trouble by paying the fare.

Two days later Menifee was laid off, and told that Mr. Timken had written to Capt. McCullough that Menifee had attempted to beat him, while the gripman held him. The letter demanded his discharge. Tuesday Menifee was discharged. In letting him out, Capt. McCullough is said to have told Menifee that he regretted to take such action, but he would have to do so in order to avoid a sult for damages by Mr. Timken. Menifee, who is a man of family, went to see Mr. Timken at his carriage factory, in the hope of conciliating that southernabut was ordered out of the factory, in forcible language.

WRITS OF REPLEVIN

Are Not Obtainable in Down-Town Jus tices' Courts.

Lawyers having business in the justices'

Lawyers having business in the justices' courts want to know why they can never secure writs of repievin in the courts of the two down-town justices, Spaulding and Shechan. Since the new law went into effect putting justices of the peace on salaries, applications in these two courts for such writs have been refused invariably, and litigants compelled to go to outlying justices of the peace.

These writs are among the most important issued in justices' courts. Complaining lawyers state that when application for such writs becomes necessary, it is vital that they be issued and served at once, in order to prevent the removal of property. Frequently the necessity of two applications, the second necessitating a trip of many blocks, requires so much time as to practically nullify the writ when speared.

At the office of Justice Spaulding, Tenth and Olive streets, John Thomas Brady, brother of Constable Ben Brady and an unsalaried assistant to that official, called upon Deputy Constable Allison to explain, in the absence of Mr. Brady.

"We won't bother with such writs, because we haven't a sufficient force of constables to serve thems," said Mr. Allison. "I do not know whether we have a legal right to refuse them, but certainly they ought to go to the uptown justices, who do much less business than we. I understand that some of those justices are refusing them because they are not in their district. They have no right to refuse any writs on that score except a certain specified list, which does not include writs of replevin. We have some 300 cases a month in this court, and can hardly serve the writs on these with one constable and two deputes without bothering with writs of replevin. We have some 300 cases a month in this court, and can hardly serve the writs of replevin, which does not include writs of replevin, when one wants to take that trouble. It would require time, too, and time is everything in replevin cases."

Judge Peabody Indignant.

Judge Peabody says he has been misrepresented and wrongfully quoted in connection with the discharge of Luke Le Blonde, who was in his court Tuesday, charged with being a vagrant. The Judge says that instead of being a hardened crimnal Le Blonde is a lad of 19, who lives with nis mother and works in his sister's restaurant, and whose criminal career consists of a arrest at the age of 18 for petty theft, and ohce after that for frequenting an immoral resert. What specially nettles Judge Peaoody is that he was quoted as declaring that seer. What specially nettles Judge Pea-cay is that he was quoted as declaring that is court "makes fine distinctions not made of other courts." He says he made no such ly remark, nor said anything that could so construed.

of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, be cured. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty codliver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of mait, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like pallializes. Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully of percent, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and wha were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty codliver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in searly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of mait, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be malled to you, on receipt of address and six c

AN EXTRAORDINARY WOMAN.

Yet in the End She Was Plain Mrs. Smith and Her Lot One of Every Day.

HE back yard was squared and walled around with a high board fence, painted brown. The small, inclosed space was a mat of green sod, thick and padded around the edge of the plot on three sides ran a border bed of 'rich, black earth, with pansies, sweetwilliams and a variety of foliage plants in pots. Over the brown fence there were cords fast-there were cords fast-there were cords fast-ready half way to the top. On the third side of the yard, that towards the house, the grass ran clear to the stone foundation, except where broken into by the protruding of the slanting cellarway and the descent of the back stops.

Inside the door, where the rays of the morning sun could not reach her, sat Mrs. Smith. Her dress was of simple calice stuff and she wore a big, all-covering apron. Her hair of black, with one or two faint lines of gray, was drawn back smoothly, yet with an a manner very becoming. Beside her on the fool lay a gray sunbonnet. She was shelling peas and singing softly to herself. Just angordinary woman, occupied in an ordinary manner, perfectly contented to sit and shell the peas, watching the morning giories nod in the sun and the nasturting unfolding their glowing red-yellow blostome—happy to be just an ordinary woman. For she had been extraordinary.

For she had been extraordinary, who are always longing secretly for something unusual to happen, that the extraordinary unusual to happen, that the extraordinary unusual to happen, that the extraordinary munusual to happen, that the extraordinary wonder dinter and to happen, that the extraordinary wonder in the midst of their romantic bustle and confusion, toli and turmell, thee sway and live in the midst of their romantic bustle and confusion, toli and turmell, thee sway and live in the midst of their romantic bustle and confusion, toli and tur

Moore is locked up at the police station. He is in a pitiable condition, his face being kicked almost out of human semblance and his body covered with bruises.

The locality in which the shooting took place is known as "The Bend," and is close to, the River Street Bridge of the Morris Canal. On this bridge there is always a crowd, whose practice is to hold up people for the price of drinks. The story told by Moore as to what led up to the affair is believed by the police to be correct. He says he had incurred the anmity of some of these loafers by his refusal to treat them. Yesterday their threats to "do him up" were more determined than ever. When Moore was ready last night to leave his place he saw some of his enemies near the bridge and more on the block toward Commerce street. He had to cross the bridge to get home, and, fearing an attack, placed a revolver in his pocket. When he reached the bridge he was attacked and before he bould draw his revolver was knocked down, while several of his assailants began to kick and punch him. He shouted for help and after a struggle reached his revolver and regained his feet. He at once opened fire. Some of the attacking party ran, but others rushed at him, and he had to retreat, running and firing as he ran. The first man seen to fall was John O'Brien. As O'Brien fell, Moore stooped over and dealt him a heavy blow on the back of the head. Moore retreated a few steps farther, and, turning again, fired another shot, this one striking James O'Brien in the center of the forehead and glancing off. Two more shots were fired by Moore, one of which struck Donlan in the left breast. The noise attracted the police, who strested Moore and sent the wounded men to the city hospitals. work Lineman Harry Sherman came in contact with a live electric wire carrying about 1,800 volts and received a shock which appeared at first to have killed him outright. His body fell prone as rigid as a corpse. He was picked up and two of his associates in a moment began the work of resuscitation by inducing artificial respiration. In six minutes the man showed signs of life and in two or three more was able to tell of the accident. He was taken to his home and is in bed, but says he feels as well as ever except for an ugly burn on his arm.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 29.—The strike situation among the garmentmakers remains unchanged, except that more hands have gone out. The bosses show no inclination to accede to the demands of the strikers, and the latter are firm in their intention to fight to the end. The strikers are firm, and assert that they will spring another surprise on them to-day. The strikers say that they are not satisfied in tying up the smaller shops, and if the proprietors of these shops do not accede to the demands of the surlivers and if the secret union of the manufacturers and the bosses becomes more formidable, the strikers asy that they will come to something A CHINESE ORATOR. NEW YORK, August 29.—It was rumored the "San Yup" society and the "Sue Jup" society, which are branches of two powerful society, which are branches of two powerful organizations of similar sames in San Francisco. The trouble originated over a business quarrel in the latter city between the mother organizations, and the feeling of discord spread to this city and there has been a desire on the part of the rivals to boycott each other.

Chin-Fong, a well known Chinese merchant, who owns a restaurant in Pell street, came out on the sidewalk last night and addresed a large crowd of his countrymen.

Acting Captain Johnny, of the Elizabeth Street Station, in anticipation of trouble, had stationed a number of patrolmen in the vicinity and as soon as the crowd became demonstrative, Chin-Fong was ordered to desist. The police dispersed the crowd. This put a damper on Chin and his followers and they gave up the attempt to hold an open air meeting. Considerable excitement prevailed in the neighborhood for some time, however. ers say that they will come to something more decisive.

Montrose Co-Operative Colony Just Es-tablished in Colorado.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Anna L. Diggs, the agitator, and Dr. S. McLallin, editor of the Advocate, the official paper of the Populist party in Kansas, have just returned from Montrose County, Colo, where they have been to establish the Montrose County co-operative colony. The colony is to be conducted on the Bellamy plan and is being promoted by the same organization that a year ago perfected arrangements for establishing a colony about fifty miles below Washington. The Potomac location was abandoned, Mrs. Diggs says, because of its unhealthfulness. The Colorado colony is to be located on Government land, which will be taken up under the homestead and desert land act laws. Intending colonists have already filed upon 5,000 acres of land, and ten men have located there and begun work, making preparations for the reception of the colonists and their families. Other members of the proposed colony will in a few days file upon fully 5,000 acres more. Mrs. Diggs now claims a residence in Colorado, and says that one reason which that State was selected for her colony is that women there have their political rights, and that she is tired of battling for them elsewhere without result. TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 29.-Mrs. Anna L.

In many cases the milk had been skimmed and the dealer was presumably selling it as good milk because his cans were not otherwise tagged when the inspector took the sample. In some cases the milk had been merely watered, and in others it had been merely watered, and in others it had been both watered and skimmed.
